

“Addiction”
Simone Bukovsky
Gray New-Gloucester High School

I am a husband.

I am a wife

I have to have a drink.

It's not just one.

I am scared of what is happening to me.

I'm scared of what is happening to him.

But I love the numbness it gives me.

He is no longer himself; he is losing control.

I am terrified of what is to come of this.

I am terrified of what is to come of this.

I want to get clean but I don't think I will succeed.
She hates me.

He tried again but went back to his addiction.

She left me.

I couldn't see him destroy himself any longer.

I'm so sorry.

I'm so sorry.